QUAKE SHAKES THREE STATES IN FLOOD AREA

E. ARKANSAS, W. TENNESSEE, SOUTH MISSOURI

TREMORS CONTINUED OF ALMOST MINUTE'S DURATION

PEOPLE AROUSED, THOUGHT REMAINING LEVEES HAD BROKEN

Memphis, Tenn., May 7.—(UP)—Eastern Arkansas, western Tennessee and southern Missouri were shaken by an earthquake early today with tremors continuing almost a minute.

Reports from these sections, most of which are inundated by floods, said no serious damage was done.

Persons aroused by the disturbance in most cases thought remaining levees had given way and the rumblings were caused by rush of water.

Memphis police answered several telephone calls from persons who thought burglars were in their homes

The shocks were felt shortly after 2:30 A. M.

Memphis, Tenn., May 7—Memphis was shaken by an earthquake at 2:30 A. M. today. The shock lasted ten seconds, shaking buildings perceptibly.

Early reports indicated the tremblor was felt in several places over a wide area.

No loss of life or property damage had been reported up to 5 A. M.

FEDERAL PARTY STUDIES FLOOD

Natchez, Miss., May 7.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Secretary of War Dwight Davis, Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers and other members of the federal party studying the Mississippi flood situation arrived here today by steamer from Vicksburg.

A conference has been arranged with former Gov. John M. Parker, director of flood relief for Louisiana, before the Hoover party continues the trip to Baton Rouge, which is rapidly becoming the center for all relief activities in the southern valley.

Travelling in the engineer boat, "Control" members of the party were given a vivid picture of the extent of the overflow at St. Joseph, La., inundated by breaks at Winterquarter and Villa Clara.

Near the old river town in the early evening Hoover and Davis were startled from their dinner by the steamer crashing its way through a forest of willows between the levee and the river itself. They rushed on deck and saw themselves sailing through a sizeable woods with trees breaking and bending before the stern wheeler.

It was the only way the captain could reach the levee of St. Joseph, rapidly being obliterated by the flood waters.

Secretary Davis stated that the major purpose of his tour was to find means of preventing a repetition of floods in the future.

No solution has been found as yet, he added.

Gen. Jadwin expressed the belief that army engineers would be able to present President Coolidge with a permanent program for flood control before the first of the year.

12,000 ACRES COVERED, 300,000 PEOPLE HOMELESS

By E. W. LEWIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Vicksburg, Miss., May 7.—Approximately 12,000 square miles have been inundated in the southern flood area and 330,000 persons have either left their homes or are marooned, according to a statement issued here by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Hoover and Secretary of War Dwight Davis today continued their survey of flood conditions in Louisiana, making the trip at the request of President Coolidge, who desires additional flood control data.

Levees in southern Louisiana which have not felt the full force of the flood "stand an even chance" of resisting the water, in the belief of Secretary Davis.

In a statement issued here before leaving for Natchez and Baton Rouge, Hoover outlined the flood situation as follows:

Areas flooded in the southern area are estimated as: Louisiana, 3,400 square miles; Mississippi, 2,000 square miles; Arkansas, 4,000 square miles, Missouri, 1,500 square miles.

Of the 330,000 population in these districts, 180,000 have been removed and 150,000 are marooned in the upper floors of their homes, or on ridges.

The crest of the flood, moving at about 40 miles a day, had about 400 miles to go before it will spend its force in the gulf.

Six thousand square miles of Louisiana territory is still in danger of being flooded.

Reconstruction preparations are progressing. Finances have been arranged and supplies will be available to permit farmers to replant crops. It will take from four to six weeks for flooded areas to drain.

All refugees are being cared for satisfactorily by the Red Cross and health conditions are as good as can be expected.

"Every penny the American people can give" is needed for rehabilitation work, Hoover said.

MAN DROWNED IN KANSAS CITY HEAVY RAIN

Kansas City, Mo., May 7.—(UP)—One man was drowned this morning as a result of a torrential downpour that flooded miles of streets here and demoralized traffic.

Albert Stewart and three other workmen were operating a centrifugal pump for a construction company at the junction of Gooseneck sewer and Blue river, when the sudden rise in the sewer caused the wooden platform on which the men were working to be carried into the river. Stewart was unable to swim but the three other men managed to stay afloat until rescued.

The rainstorm, in which 1.30 inches of rain fell in a half hour, followed a period of darkness which made it appear as if night had descended upon the city.

"COMMUNISTS" ADVANCING ON SWATOW

ADMIRALTY COMMUNIQUE MADE PUBLIC AT LONDON

INTENTION OF INVADERS SAID TO BE TO BURN THE CITY

London, May 7.—(UP)—An admiralty communique today said a "force of communists" was advancing on Swatow, China, with the intention of burning the city and that it was only 17 miles away. The British cruiser Danae was guarding British interests at Swatow.

Four British sailors were wounded Monday, the communique announced, when Chinese fired on H. M. S. Kiawo in the Yangtze river.

Hakodate, Japan, May 6.—Brutal treatment of Japanese nationals by Russian police at Uskam, Kamchatka on the Siberian coast, was reported today by persons arriving here on board a steamer from Vladivostok.

Passengers said 26 Japanese had been burned to death and 54 had been seriously wounded in a fire which destroyed a Soviet Russian state canning factory at Uskam. Survivors of the fire were brutally treated by police and struck, passengers said. Families of the survivors living in Hakodate today were preparing a petition to the naval ministry for the dispatch of a Japanese warship to Kamchatka peninsula to insure the safety of Japanese subjects.

FLIERS OVERDUE, WITH SLIM HOPES HELD FOR SAFETY

CAPT. SAINT ROMAN AND COMPANIONS MAY HAVE BEEN DROWNED IN SEA

FLIERS LEFT AFRICA FOR PERNAMBUCO, WIRELESS REPORTS STOP

Rio De Janeiro, May 7.—(UP)—Only slim hopes were held out today for the safety of Capt. Saint Roman French aviator, and two companions, on a trans-Atlantic flight who were overdue at Pernambuco.

The flyers left Africa for Pernambuco Thursday morning and kept in constant wireless communication with ships and shore stations until late in the day, when their half-hour reports suddenly stopped coming in. They were due at Pernambuco at midnight Friday.

The Club Bandeirantes Brasil today suggested that the Brazilian aviator Debarros set out by plane in search of the missing Saint Roman.

It would be a "brave and patriotic action" as a manifestation of solidarity between France and Brazil, the club said in a message to Debarros.

Two possibilities for the safety of the trio were held out. it was possible they had landed at some inaccessible place on the Brazilian sea coast, or that they had been forced down and had been rescued by some small ship unequipped with wireless.

But it was pointed out the first possibility was reasonable only if the flyers had lost their bearings, for they did not pass the Island of Fernando De Noronha, off the Brazilian coast, which is in a direct line from Africa to Pernambuco. The second theory also was only a hope, for along the line of flight of the aviators, almost all ships carry wireless.

The aviators took their chance with death when they embarked on the flight in a plane not equipped with pontoons, and unable to remain long afloat if it was forced into the water. The French government, which had sponsored the flight, withdrew from all connection with it when the pontoons were removed at Casablanca, Morocco, after several attempts proved the engines could not lift the plane weighted both with pontoons and an over-load of gasoline. Saint Roman sacrificed his pontoons rather than risk failure of the flight because of exhausted fuel. All previous flights from Africa to South America have ended on the Island of Fernando De Noronha instead of on the mainland because the planes' gasoline was exhausted.

With Saint Roman in the plane were Pilot Mouneyeres and Mechanic Petit.

London, May 7.—(UP)—Two experienced aviators told the United Press today that Captain Saint Roman, missing French aviator, could not remain afloat in his plane more than five to twelve hours if he was forced to light on the water. If his tanks still held much gasoline when he was forced down, the plane might have sunk within two hours or less, it was estimated.

No definite word that the plane had been forced down at sea had been received.

Frank Courtney, test pilot, said a plane of the type of Saint Roman's, not equipped with pontoons, could only remain above water eight or ten hours in a calm sea with empty gasoline tanks. With full tanks, two hours would be the limit, and if the sea were rough the plane might have sunk at once, he said.

Major H. S. Broad, member of the 1925 United States Schneider cup team, estimated the maximum time the plane could remain afloat as five or six hours, but he pointed out that Saint Roman and his companions might have been equipped with life belts which would keep them on the surface after the plane sank.

Paris, May 7. — French aviation circles refused to give up hope today for Capt. Saint Roman and two companions, missing somewhere in the South Atlantic.

Shortage of fuel probably forced the aviators, en route from Africa to Brazil, to alight at some isolated spot on the Brazilian coast, it was contended.

Lieutenant Coli, preparing for a flight from Paris to New York with Charles Nungesser, said Pilot Mouneyeres, who accompanied Saint Roman was the best navigator who could have been picked in the French navy.

"He could have reached Brazil if anyone could," said Coli, expressing confidence that the aviators would be found.

BOY WITH CAVED LUNGS GIVES UP FIGHT

WALTER L. BOOTH KEPT ALIVE BY ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

DIES THIS MORNING IN A HOSPITAL AT ROANOKE, VA.

Roanoke, Va., May 7.—(UP)—Walter L. Booth's fight to live is ended.

The youth with collapsed lungs, whose friends for more than a fortnight had kept him alive by artificial respiration, died this morning in Jefferson hospital.

Shortly after midnight the 18-year-old farm boy turned his head feebly toward one of the two men who were pumping his arms to force air into his chest.

"I think I'm going," he said.

He said nothing more for two hours, but lay silent in contemplation of death.

At 2:30 A. M. he began to lose consciousness. His father bent over him but Walter gave no sign of recognition.

A physician felt Walter's pulse. Faintly discernible it weakened as the stupor increased.

At 6 A. M. as sunshine lighted the room the friends pumping his arms noticed Walter's hands growing cold.

The physician looked up.

"His pulse has stopped," said the doctor.

Walter had yielded to death after 366 hours of brave hearted struggle.

His battle to live amazed medical science. Young Booth had been injured in an automobile accident a year ago. He continued to live on his farm at Troutsville until last month.

On April 21 an operation was performed here to adjust his spine, found injured in the crash. During the operation a vertebrae was injured and the threnic nerve connecting with the lungs ceased to function.

KRESGE FILES SECOND SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Detroit, Mich., May 7.—(UP)—A second suit for divorce from his young wife, Doris Mercer Kresge, has been filed in circuit court here by Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store magnate and prohibition leader, it was learned today.

Kresge sued his wife last fall on the ground of desertion, but later withdrew the suit when Mrs. Kresge, who is his second wife, obtained an injunction in New York state courts to prevent his forcing her to contest the divorce suit here.

BUTLER JUST RETURNED FROM TOUR

WILL CONTINUE "SIZING UP THE COUNTRY" IN EVERY STATE

GENERAL TALK GIVES COLOR TO IDEA THAT COOLIDGE WILL RUN AGAIN

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 7. — President Coolidge has calmed the clamor for the scalp of his friend, Chairman William M. Butler of the republican national committee, and Butler will lead the Coolidge presidential campaign of 1928.

This information developed today from a series of events following Butler's return from an inspection tour of the west and his announcement that he intends to visit every state before the pre-convention presidential campaign opens.

Guests at the president's political breakfast yesterday proceeded in the assumption that Mr. Coolidge is to be a candidate again in 1928. While the guests did not report the president discussing the subject, they said that the general talk was based on his running again.

Butler's extensive tour will be designed not only to line up delegates for Mr. Coolidge but also toward conciliating Butler's relations with sectional republican leaders over the country—which are reported to have been none too cordial recently.

Several months ago (following Butler's defeat for the senate in Massachusetts) republicans in congress began to talk of his possible resignation from the chairmanship. Butler has never been a political gladhander, and has made few friends among politicians on that basis.

He brought a new theory into the conduct of a national political convention, assuming the quiet air of an executive rather than the geniality and affability most political leaders exude. Hence his enemies in the party were eager to seize upon his senatorial defeat as an opening wedge against him.

Instead of quitting, Butler is now expected to run for the senate again and at the same time retain the chairmanship. With Mr. Coolidge heading the ticket, Butler's friends believe his chances of re-election in Massachusetts next year would be excellent. They point out that Coolidge influence elected Senator Gillette, republican, Massachusetts, in 1924, by a narrow margin against Senator David I. Walsh, democrat. In the off-year of 1926 Butler was defeated by Walsh.

Mr. Coolidge is understood to have sanctioned procedure which would keep his friend at the party helm and might place him in the senate.

McGENTY SENTENCED FOR HOLDING UP OIL FILLING STATION

Denver, Colo., May 7.—(UP)—W. McGenty, 23, of Minneapolis, Minn., today was sentenced to serve 25 years in the state penitentiary for holding up an oil filling station here.

Mrs. Grace McGenty, 17, arrested with McGenty in Raton, N. M., and who admitted she and her husband had participated in more than a score of robberies in the east, will be tried next Saturday.

PHILIP HENRY HALE, NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER AND COMPOSER, DIES

St. Louis, Mo., May 7.—(UP)—Philip Henry Hale, 77, newspaper publisher, composer and author, died in a hospital here early today from the infirmities of old age.

Hale was best known as founder and for many years publisher of the National Livestock Reporter of East St. Louis, and the National Fruit Growers' magazine.

SAYS FURTHER CREDIT WOULD NOT AID AGRICULTURE

Santiago, Minn., May 7.—(UP)—The present conditions in agriculture would not be aided by further credit, J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, told a gathering of Sherburne county farmers here last night.

"What is needed now is some means of liquidating debts already incurred," he said.

Reorganization of the Federal Farm Loan board, he said, gives the appearance that the policy of farm relief advocated by eastern industrial interests was to extend further credit to the farmer.

Reed declared it is a move of "very doubtful utility in the present situation of agriculture."

"Further credit is not the relief needed under conditions at this time," he declared.

NUNGESSER AND COLI IN PARIS-N. Y. TRY

MAKE FINAL PREPARATIONS FOR HOP-OFF AT DAWN TOMORROW

COLI, ONE-EYED FRENCH WAR ACE, MAKES FINAL TESTS

Paris, May 7.—(UP) — Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli made final preparations today for their flight from Paris to New York, which they expect to start at dawn tomorrow, weather permitting.

As Coli, the one-eyed French war ace, made final tests of his navigating instruments, he expressed to the United Press the hope that Clarence Chamberlain and Lloyd Bertaud would be ready to start simultaneously from New York for Paris in their Bellanca monoplane.

"We hope to make it a real race," he said. "The Americans have a splendid plane and we know from experience that they are dare-devils as well as splendid flyers. Bertaud's air mail career shows he is a very capable aviator.

"I still hope to eat dinner in New York Monday."

Nungesser and Coli had hoped to start this morning but were unable to prepare the plane. The landing gear had to be changed, gasoline tanks emptied and refilled to insure proper fuel, and navigating instruments verified.

Fogs and storms were reported in the North Atlantic today.

Curtis Field, L. I., May 7.—Despite a statement by G. M. Bellanca that the Bellanca monoplane scheduled to attempt a New York-Paris flight could not start for a week, it was believed today that the little craft was in condition for a flight and would start at once if any other contestant hopped off on the trans-oceanic adventure.

Bellanca said many alterations planned for the plane, which remained aloft 51 hours several weeks ago, had not been completed. It was recalled, however, that immediately after the endurance record was established Bellanca had said the plane he designed could give any other plane four hours' start and beat it to Paris, and it was reported he wanted to add the thrill of contest to the hazardous undertaking by racing another plane for the New York-Paris honor.

Lloyd Bertaud and Clarence Chamberlain, navigator and pilot for the flight, were understood to be ready to leave at any time.

San Diego, May 7.—Captain Chas. A. Lindbergh planned to hop off for St. Louis today in his huge Ryan monoplane in which he will attempt a New York to Paris flight.

He hopes to be in St. Louis by Sunday afternoon.

After remaining in St. Louis at least two days, Captain Lindbergh will take off for New York to prepare for his trans-Atlantic hop.

He had planned to start for St. Louis yesterday but postponed the trip because of storms along the line of his proposed flight.

Washington, May 7. — (UP) — Ira Reeves, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, today submitted his resignation to Assistant secretary of the Treasury Andrews.

FLOOD CREST NOW THOUGHT BEING PASSED

FINANCIAL AID FOR FARMERS IN THE STRICKEN REGION

REFORESTATION AND CONTROL OF SOIL EROSION TO BE EFFECTED

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 7.—The government moved rapidly today toward rehabilitation of devastated flood areas in the Mississippi valley.

With the flood crest reached, the following steps supplementing Red Cross relief work were announced:

1. Approval of an agriculture credit corporation in Arkansas to make loans to farmers.

2. Bankers in Mississippi valley made appointment with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to discuss means of financing farmers for their next crops.

3. President Coolidge conferred with Red Cross officials concerning use of Red Cross funds for feed and fodder in flooded districts.

4. Senate commerce committee planned for trip in flooded areas so as to make relief recommendations to congress next December.

5. Agriculture department crop reporting board announced it would immediately begin survey of Mississippi flooded tracts.

6. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine announced campaign including reforestation and control of soil erosion to prevent future floods of such devastating nature.

The Arkansas credit corporation has been approved by the treasury and will have a capital of from $500,000 to $1,000,000, according to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

A considerable portion of the capital has already been pledged by bankers and arrangements may be made to obtain advances from the federal intermediate credit banks on the basis of three times the paid-in capital of the corporation.

Mellon said intermediate credit banks are in a position to make advances to state and national banks on paper representing advances for agriculture purposes. He said the corporation would make loans directly to farmers in flooded areas on a gradual basis as crop seasons advance.

The treasury received notice from a group of Mississippi valley bankers that they would come here to confer with Mellon on financing rehabilitation work. President Coolidge, it was stated, endorses the move and hopes some means will be found to advance farmers cash, on easy terms, so they can finance their year's crops.

The president also envisages a plan whereby the Red Cross may advance funds to needy for feed, fodder and seeds. Seed and feed requirements are neeed for one-million acres, exclusive of Louisiana, it was stated.

Meantime the senate commerce committee prepared for a trip in the flooded area late this month. The committee will make a first hand survey of conditions and recommend permanent relief legislation to congress when it convenes.

The crop reporting board of the agriculture department has not completed its survey but early reports indicated large portions of the cotton crop in many states were practically wiped out. losses of stock, especially work animals, were reported heavy, resulting in a serious handicap to rehabilitation work.

Reduction of soil erosion as well as reforestation and forest protection must form part of any plan for controlling the Mississippi ravages, a statement by Secretary Jardine said. Both trees and absorptive surface soil on fields hold back rainwaters and check floods, he said.

With this program definitely drafted, the government indicated that further equally important relief measures would be taken as soon as needs could be ascertained and machinery brought into play.

BOY WITH CAVED LUNGS GIVES UP FIGHT

WALTER L. BOOTH KEPT ALIVE BY ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

DIES THIS MORNING IN A HOSPITAL AT ROANOKE, VA.

Roanoke, Va., May 7.—(UP)—Walter L. Booth's fight to live is ended.

The youth with collapsed lungs, whose friends for more than a fortnight had kept him alive by artificial respiration, died this morning in Jefferson hospital.

Shortly after midnight the 18-year-old farm boy turned his head feebly toward one of the two men who were pumping his arms to force air into his chest.

"I think I'm going," he said.

He said nothing more for two hours, but lay silent in contemplation of death.

At 2:30 A. M. he began to lose consciousness. His father bent over him but Walter gave no sign of recognition.

A physician felt Walter's pulse. Faintly discernible it weakened as the stupor increased.

At 6 A. M. as sunshine lighted the room the friends pumping his arms noticed Walter's hands growing cold.

The physician looked up.

"His pulse has stopped," said the doctor.

Walter had yielded to death after 366 hours of brave hearted struggle.

His battle to live amazed medical science. Young Booth had been injured in an automobile accident a year ago. He continued to live on his farm at Troutsville until last month.

On April 21 an operation was performed here to adjust his spine, found injured in the crash. During the operation a vertebrae was injured and the threnic nerve connecting with the lungs ceased to function.

KRESGE FILES SECOND SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Detroit, Mich., May 7.—(UP)—A second suit for divorce from his young wife, Doris Mercer Kresge, has been filed in circuit court here by Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store magnate and prohibition leader, it was learned today.

Kresge sued his wife last fall on the ground of desertion, but later withdrew the suit when Mrs. Kresge, who is his second wife, obtained an injunction in New York state courts to prevent his forcing her to contest the divorce suit here.

BUTLER JUST RETURNED FROM TOUR

WILL CONTINUE "SIZING UP THE COUNTRY" IN EVERY STATE

GENERAL TALK GIVES COLOR TO IDEA THAT COOLIDGE WILL RUN AGAIN

By PAUL R. MALLON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 7. — President Coolidge has calmed the clamor for the scalp of his friend, Chairman William M. Butler of the republican national committee, and Butler will lead the Coolidge presidential campaign of 1928.

This information developed today from a series of events following Butler's return from an inspection tour of the west and his announcement that he intends to visit every state before the pre-convention presidential campaign opens.

Guests at the president's political breakfast yesterday proceeded in the assumption that Mr. Coolidge is to be a candidate again in 1928. While the guests did not report the president discussing the subject, they said that the general talk was based on his running again.

Butler's extensive tour will be designed not only to line up delegates for Mr. Coolidge but also toward conciliating Butler's relations with sectional republican leaders over the country—which are reported to have been none too cordial recently.

Several months ago (following Butler's defeat for the senate in Massachusetts) republicans in congress began to talk of his possible resignation from the chairmanship. Butler has never been a political gladhander, and has made few friends among politicians on that basis.

He brought a new theory into the conduct of a national political convention, assuming the quiet air of an executive rather than the geniality and affability most political leaders exude. Hence his enemies in the party were eager to seize upon his senatorial defeat as an opening wedge against him.

Instead of quitting, Butler is now expected to run for the senate again and at the same time retain the chairmanship. With Mr. Coolidge heading the ticket, Butler's friends believe his chances of re-election in Massachusetts next year would be excellent. They point out that Coolidge influence elected Senator Gillette, republican, Massachusetts, in 1924, by a narrow margin against Senator David I. Walsh, democrat. In the off-year of 1926 Butler was defeated by Walsh.

Mr. Coolidge is understood to have sanctioned procedure which would keep his friend at the party helm and might place him in the senate.

McGENTY SENTENCED FOR HOLDING UP OIL FILLING STATION

Denver, Colo., May 7.—(UP)—W. McGenty, 23, of Minneapolis, Minn., today was sentenced to serve 25 years in the state penitentiary for holding up an oil filling station here.

Mrs. Grace McGenty, 17, arrested with McGenty in Raton, N. M., and who admitted she and her husband had participated in more than a score of robberies in the east, will be tried next Saturday.

PHILIP HENRY HALE, NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER AND COMPOSER, DIES

St. Louis, Mo., May 7.—(UP)—Philip Henry Hale, 77, newspaper publisher, composer and author, died in a hospital here early today from the infirmities of old age.

Hale was best known as founder and for many years publisher of the National Livestock Reporter of East St. Louis, and the National Fruit Growers' magazine.

SAYS FURTHER CREDIT WOULD NOT AID AGRICULTURE

Santiago, Minn., May 7.—(UP)—The present conditions in agriculture would not be aided by further credit, J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, told a gathering of Sherburne county farmers here last night.

"What is needed now is some means of liquidating debts already incurred," he said.

Reorganization of the Federal Farm Loan board, he said, gives the appearance that the policy of farm relief advocated by eastern industrial interests was to extend further credit to the farmer.

Reed declared it is a move of "very doubtful utility in the present situation of agriculture."

"Further credit is not the relief needed under conditions at this time," he declared.

NUNGESSER AND COLI IN PARIS-N. Y. TRY

MAKE FINAL PREPARATIONS FOR HOP-OFF AT DAWN TOMORROW

COLI, ONE-EYED FRENCH WAR ACE, MAKES FINAL TESTS

Paris, May 7.—(UP) — Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli made final preparations today for their flight from Paris to New York, which they expect to start at dawn tomorrow, weather permitting.

As Coli, the one-eyed French war ace, made final tests of his navigating instruments, he expressed to the United Press the hope that Clarence Chamberlain and Lloyd Bertaud would be ready to start simultaneously from New York for Paris in their Bellanca monoplane.

"We hope to make it a real race," he said. "The Americans have a splendid plane and we know from experience that they are dare-devils as well as splendid flyers. Bertaud's air mail career shows he is a very capable aviator.

"I still hope to eat dinner in New York Monday."

Nungesser and Coli had hoped to start this morning but were unable to prepare the plane. The landing gear had to be changed, gasoline tanks emptied and refilled to insure proper fuel, and navigating instruments verified.

Fogs and storms were reported in the North Atlantic today.

Curtis Field, L. I., May 7.—Despite a statement by G. M. Bellanca that the Bellanca monoplane scheduled to attempt a New York-Paris flight could not start for a week, it was believed today that the little craft was in condition for a flight and would start at once if any other contestant hopped off on the trans-oceanic adventure.

Bellanca said many alterations planned for the plane, which remained aloft 51 hours several weeks ago, had not been completed. It was recalled, however, that immediately after the endurance record was established Bellanca had said the plane he designed could give any other plane four hours' start and beat it to Paris, and it was reported he wanted to add the thrill of contest to the hazardous undertaking by racing another plane for the New York-Paris honor.

Lloyd Bertaud and Clarence Chamberlain, navigator and pilot for the flight, were understood to be ready to leave at any time.

San Diego, May 7.—Captain Chas. A. Lindbergh planned to hop off for St. Louis today in his huge Ryan monoplane in which he will attempt a New York to Paris flight.

He hopes to be in St. Louis by Sunday afternoon.

After remaining in St. Louis at least two days, Captain Lindbergh will take off for New York to prepare for his trans-Atlantic hop.

He had planned to start for St. Louis yesterday but postponed the trip because of storms along the line of his proposed flight.

Washington, May 7. — (UP) — Ira Reeves, prohibition administrator for New Jersey, today submitted his resignation to Assistant secretary of the Treasury Andrews.

FLOOD CREST NOW THOUGHT BEING PASSED

FINANCIAL AID FOR FARMERS IN THE STRICKEN REGION

REFORESTATION AND CONTROL OF SOIL EROSION TO BE EFFECTED

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 7.—The government moved rapidly today toward rehabilitation of devastated flood areas in the Mississippi valley.

With the flood crest reached, the following steps supplementing Red Cross relief work were announced:

1. Approval of an agriculture credit corporation in Arkansas to make loans to farmers.

2. Bankers in Mississippi valley made appointment with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to discuss means of financing farmers for their next crops.

3. President Coolidge conferred with Red Cross officials concerning use of Red Cross funds for feed and fodder in flooded districts.

4. Senate commerce committee planned for trip in flooded areas so as to make relief recommendations to congress next December.

5. Agriculture department crop reporting board announced it would immediately begin survey of Mississippi flooded tracts.

6. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine announced campaign including reforestation and control of soil erosion to prevent future floods of such devastating nature.

The Arkansas credit corporation has been approved by the treasury and will have a capital of from $500,000 to $1,000,000, according to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

A considerable portion of the capital has already been pledged by bankers and arrangements may be made to obtain advances from the federal intermediate credit banks on the basis of three times the paid-in capital of the corporation.

Mellon said intermediate credit banks are in a position to make advances to state and national banks on paper representing advances for agriculture purposes. He said the corporation would make loans directly to farmers in flooded areas on a gradual basis as crop seasons advance.

The treasury received notice from a group of Mississippi valley bankers that they would come here to confer with Mellon on financing rehabilitation work. President Coolidge, it was stated, endorses the move and hopes some means will be found to advance farmers cash, on easy terms, so they can finance their year's crops.

The president also envisages a plan whereby the Red Cross may advance funds to needy for feed, fodder and seeds. Seed and feed requirements are neeed for one-million acres, exclusive of Louisiana, it was stated.

Meantime the senate commerce committee prepared for a trip in the flooded area late this month. The committee will make a first hand survey of conditions and recommend permanent relief legislation to congress when it convenes.

The crop reporting board of the agriculture department has not completed its survey but early reports indicated large portions of the cotton crop in many states were practically wiped out. losses of stock, especially work animals, were reported heavy, resulting in a serious handicap to rehabilitation work.

Reduction of soil erosion as well as reforestation and forest protection must form part of any plan for controlling the Mississippi ravages, a statement by Secretary Jardine said. Both trees and absorptive surface soil on fields hold back rainwaters and check floods, he said.

With this program definitely drafted, the government indicated that further equally important relief measures would be taken as soon as needs could be ascertained and machinery brought into play.

Detroit, May 7.—(UP)—The $2,000,000 suit of John M. Blair, building contractor, against the Ford Motor company for alleged breach of seven contracts has been settled out of court, it was announced today.

DISPATCH SPONSORING

Readers Refer to Photographing Scenes as "Shooting the Interior"

All Brainerd is movie-mad!

A celebrity of the screen visiting the city this month would very likely imagine himself back in Hollywood if the new trend of conversation around town means anything at all.

"On location," "close-ups," "camera angle" and numerous other words of film lingo that has helped to make Hollywood the colorful place that it is, have already become casual words of screen enthusiasts here.

Interest has certainly surpassed expectation in the motion picture writing and casting contest that the Brainerd Dispatch is sponsoring in cooperation with Finkelstein and Ruben and the Berkova Motion Picture Company, a Hollywood producing unit.

Readers are no longer referring to the filming of scenes on the stage of the Park theatre as such, but are speaking of it instead of "shooting the interior." They are waiting for the time when the fortunate players of the production go "on location."

But the greatest yarn is that of a youngster, widely-read in film lore, who went up to W. R. Hiller, manager of the Park theatre yesterday and confided to him "a 'gag' like one I saw Tom Mix use once in a swell Injun picture."

TRUNK HIGHWAY SYSTEM REPORT

Load restrictions still in effect are as follows:

ARTS OF PEACE PAY BETTER THAN WAR

THE arts of peace pay better than war, is the experience of Germany, as voiced at a dinner tendered the energetic German ambassador, Baron von Maltzan, when he was at St. Paul. In charge of arrangements for the splendid reception accorded the ambassador was Otto Bremer, well known banker.

As reported in the St. Paul Pioneer Press, President Asa G. Briggs, of the St. Paul Association, who introduced the baron to the diners, said that "both Germany and the United States went out of the war business at the end of the war. The United States with a potential man power of 18,000,000 has a standing army of 136,000 and Germany with a man power of 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 has an army of 100,000.

"As a result," he declared, "the United States has experienced seven years of unprecedented prosperity and Germany has outstripped, in the paths of peace and trade, nations who have armies six times as large as hers."

The ambassador, he said, has served both Germany and the United States well in his efforts for closer relations.

Some people think a business man has no vision, that he is only concerned in grubbing for money, or trying to meet his payroll and other expenses and make a decent profit.

Do you know who is given credit for paving the way to real peace and friendly relations with Germany?

It was the business men of the United States. As quoted in the St. Paul Pioneer Press, Baron von Maltzan reminded his hearers of the "splendid work of relief" closely associated with the name of Herbert Hoover and of the reparations plan of Charles G. Dawes.

That Germany is "getting on its feet" is noted by the assertion of the ambassador that last year the exports from the United States to Germany amounted to more than all the exports to South America.

MINNESOTA TURNS THE CORNER

MINNESOTA has turned the corner. No longer can there be any doubt about that.

Unwarranted optimism might color a bank survey, tint a newspaper's investigation into conditions, or cause a community booster to close his eyes to a possible bad side of the picture he paints.

But unwarranted optimism cannot juggle the figures of the income tax collector. Hence the statement that there no longer can be any doubt of the fact that Minnesota has turned the corner.

When five thousand more Minnesotans pay income taxes than did so last year; when more Minnesota farmers pay income tax this year, despite broadened exemptions, than in any of the four or five previous years; when the first quarter's income tax receipts show a gratifying gain over the first quarter of last year, there can be but one answer.

This answer is that the people of Minnesota, including those who got it in pay envelopes and fees, those who got it as profits in trade or industry and those who farmed it out of the soil, made more money in 1926 than they did in 1925.

And with a remarkably excellent soil condition, early planting, opening of real freight transport in the Upper Mississippi, a growing demand for the wares on the merchant's shelves and in the manufacturer's warehouse, and a steady State-wide rise in real estate values, there is every reason that the people of Minnesota will make more money in 1927 than they did in 1926.—Minneapolis Journal.

FISHING ATTRACTS CAPTAINS OF BUSINESS

WE have captains of business and captains of finance and great manufacturers too, and all of them like to fish in Minnesota waters.

When Ben Dunham got a letter from the Maytag men who make the washing machines he handles, asking as to fishing in Minnesota, he wrote such a convincing letter that the Maytags, father and son and several district agents, quickly asked for reservations at Mille Lacs lake on May 15th.

In like manner every business man in town should put in a word about our fishing and hunting and other recreational features and thus draw to our lake region the big men in finance, industry and manufacturing. Show them the best side of our section and maybe they will spend their whole summers here and invest in our resources.

TRAVEL TREND ON NORTHERN PACIFIC

SHOWING the travel trend on passenger trains, the annual report of the Northern Pacific railway for 1926 shows that the average miles each passenger was carried increased in that 12-month period from 135.33 to 144.87 miles. This is an increase of 9.54 miles, or 7.05 per cent, as compared with the preceding year.

The figures of this transcontinental railway system disclose that there is a continuing shrinkage in the short-haul passenger business and an increase in the long-haul business.

THERE are various kinds of consolidations and mergers. We hope, should there be a consolidation of Northern Pacific and Great Northern, that our line will not lose its identity. Northern Pacific "service and courtesy" are world known phrases which mean something.

THE Minnesota Law Supplement, voluminous as usual, is attached to all our exchanges as well as the Dispatch. How many have read these session laws?

IT is excellent to be optimistic in staging things, but it is also the part of discretion to look where you will land if the enterprise goes flat.

AND now that the town home has been cleaned up, the busy householder turns his attention to the lake home.

AUTOMOBILE accidents will increase as the highways choke up with this army of transportation.

So far many of our New York to Paris or vice versa fliers have done more falling than flying.

THE call of the lake will now compete with that of baseball and golf.

THE STORY SO FAR

Amaryllis Minton tires of waiting for her truant mother to return and give her the love she is hungry for. She runs away and finds all that she wants in a wonderful garden with a boy, who plays the violin to her, and teaches her games. She is happy at last, and being lonely too, the boy learns to love her. The next day the boy's father returns and, learning the runaway's identity from a newspaper, he calls up her people in spite of the pleadings of John Guido, who does not know that he has called.

Then Mr. John Forrester went to his backdoor and looked out in the garden and saw two children, not making flower dollies, not playing "Mumble-ty-peg," not chasing butterflies; two children sitting very soberly in a bed of striped grass with their arms tight around each other and their faces laid together, cheek to cheek. Big, solemn tears were running down the brown cheeks of the boy and the pink cheeks of the girl.

When he slipped down as near as he could go without being seen, what he heard was: "John Guido, I'm just scared to death for fear your father's gone and told the policeman."

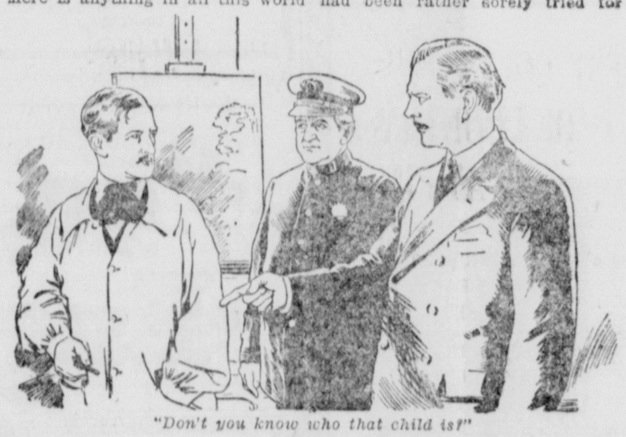

John Guido said not a word, but the tears grew bigger and rolled faster. Mr. John Forrester went back to his studio and got out his paint and his brushes and put on his working blouse and smoked a pipe furiously. He made passes at a canvas in front of him with a brush laden with exquisite paint mixed from half a dozen different colors and wiped it dry and tried again. By and by he drew his sleeve across his own eyes and said: "Oh, heavens! I don't think there is anything in all this world old and says she waited a long time to get the chance to run away because her mother went across the ocean without her, and her father and her brother do not love her. If you are her father, and you have arrived at the conclusion that you do love her, she is out in my garden. You may go and get her. I'll be blessed if I will. All I want you to understand about this is that we had nothing to do with her being here. She climbed from her automobile and ran away by herself, because she preferred to risk what might happen to her among strangers to what she knew would happen to her if she went back home!"

Then Mr. John Forrester turned on his heel, went into his studio and shut the door behind him with elaborate finality.

Mr. Paul Minton crossed the back porch and started down the path that led to the garden. Glancing down the sunlit way, he saw, standing in the path in front of a bloom-laden white syringa bush, a slender slip of a boy with bare feet, arms bared to the elbows, a rounded throat rising above an open blouse, as handsome a boy, he thought, as he had ever seen. Even at this anxious moment he noted his beauty.

The boy's hands were extended in front of him and clinging to them stood a little figure with a clean face, with carefully brushed curls, a dress as soiled and bedraggled as one the veriest beggar might have worn. As he stood staring one instant at the picture before him, he saw Amaryllis tugging at the boy's hands. He saw her small face lifted; he heard her plaintive tones: "John Guido, I am hungry again! I'm duss hungry for love, John Guido! Won't you please kiss me again?"

Mr. Paul Minton stood and stared and the heart that he had thought had been rather sorely tried for

"Don't you know who that child is?"

for me to do except to take the boy and go straight to Italy and start him on his music. Maybe among his mother's people there will be another boy or a little girl related to him who will help him to get over this."

Then he told himself one of the things that grown people always do tell themselves about children forgetting and the hurts of childhood being healed, and rot of that kind, because deep down in his heart he knew perfectly well that the hurts of childhood never are healed and that the one thing above all other things a child never does is to forget the thing that really has seared into its little soul deeply enough to make a scar.

While he was laboring to try to put something that was in his mind on the canvas there came a furious hammering at his door and he stepped into the living room with a palette in his left hand and a brush in his right and stood looking through the screen at two or three men who were gathered on the small veranda. From their uniforms it was easy to select the policemen of the group, and from his lack of uniform and a haggard, red eyed face it was easy to select the man with light hair and blue eyes and a fresh complexion whom almost anyone would have awarded Amaryllis for a father.

Mr. John Forrester, because he was nervous and because he was hurt to the soles of his shoes, took the paint brush and rolled it in the green paint very deliberately for a long second. Then he looked at the door and said in the low, easy voice that characterizes a very distinguished gentleman: "Will you be kind enough to come in?"

But he did not step forward; he did not open the door. Mr. Paul Minton opened the door for himself and came inside. He looked at the man before him and then he cried: "You telephoned me?" His voice was anxious.

Mr. John Forrester wiped the paint brush through the green paint with a little more deliberation than before and said with withering precision: "I am the man who telephoned the Chief of Police the fact that a little girl answering to the name of Amaryllis is playing in my garden."

The man with the light hair and the blue eyes cried at him: "Don't you know who that child is?"

Mr. John Forrester wiped the brush through the paint and looked through eyes narrowed very nearly to steely slits: "No, I don't know who the child is," he said, "and I don't care who she is, or how much money she's worth, nor how many relatives neglect her. The only thing I am concerned with is the fact that she says she is five years several days began to be tried for sure. He never moved a muscle when the dark haired boy fell on his knees and put his arms around the little girl and said: "Amaryllis, you will kill me! I just know that I am going to have to give you up, and I don't think that I can bear it."

Mr. Paul Minton stood still and waited, and by and by, he saw Amaryllis lift herself from the boy's arms and stand up. Very distinctly he heard her ask: "John Guido, if a policeman, or my father, or the butler comes after me, must I go?"

He saw the shaken body of the boy and he heard the agony of his tones as he sobbed: "Yes, Amaryllis. You belong to them. You have got to go."

Then he saw Amaryllis stamp her little foot.

"I don't! I don't!" she shrieked. "I don't belong to them! They don't belong to me! They don't want me! I belong to you. I belong to you, John Guido, just to you!"

To that the boy said never a word. He reached his arms once more and again he covered the little gold head with kisses and again it was Amaryllis who stepped back, and again her voice was very distinct.

"John Guido," she said. "If they come to get me, I won't stay with them. I'll run away from them again, and I'll come back to you. Every time they get me, I'll come back to you. If they get me a thousand times, some way I'll get away from them, and I'll come back to you. Do you want me, John Guido?"

The dark haired boy fell on his knees on the hard-worn, narrow footpath there in the neglected garden and stretched out his arms. "Want you, Amaryllis?" he said. "Do I want you? Even God up in Heaven doesn't know how much I want you!"

Right there Mr. Paul Minton felt the hand of the police lieutenant on his shoulder, and he knew that there was no more time to be wasted. Business was business. The episode was over. The Minton child had been found. It was time to race back to the city and find some one else's child. So he pushed the rickety gate a little wider open and stepped through.

When he becomes a very old man, with very white hair and shaky hands, he will still remember the horror on the face of little Amaryllis when she looked up and saw him coming down the pathway. He heard the shrill shriek that broke from her lips. He saw her catch the hands of the boy and try to drag him with her as she turned to flee. (To be continued)

Trees and Lightning

There is no foundation in fact for the statement that the locust tree or any other tree will attract lightning. The attraction of trees for lightning depends on the lightning zone that the tree may be in and the elevation.

Dye From Fruit

Pomegranate is the fruit of a tree which grows in Syria, northern Africa and southern Europe. It is frequently mentioned in the Bible. The fruit, which is about the size of an orange, contains a large number of reddish seeds, each contained in a separate cell. The rind contains tannin, which is used in the manufacture of Morocco leather.

ARTS OF PEACE PAY BETTER THAN WAR

THE arts of peace pay better than war, is the experience of Germany, as voiced at a dinner tendered the energetic German ambassador, Baron von Maltzan, when he was at St. Paul. In charge of arrangements for the splendid reception accorded the ambassador was Otto Bremer, well known banker.

As reported in the St. Paul Pioneer Press, President Asa G. Briggs, of the St. Paul Association, who introduced the baron to the diners, said that "both Germany and the United States went out of the war business at the end of the war. The United States with a potential man power of 18,000,000 has a standing army of 136,000 and Germany with a man power of 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 has an army of 100,000.

"As a result," he declared, "the United States has experienced seven years of unprecedented prosperity and Germany has outstripped, in the paths of peace and trade, nations who have armies six times as large as hers."

The ambassador, he said, has served both Germany and the United States well in his efforts for closer relations.

Some people think a business man has no vision, that he is only concerned in grubbing for money, or trying to meet his payroll and other expenses and make a decent profit.

Do you know who is given credit for paving the way to real peace and friendly relations with Germany?

It was the business men of the United States. As quoted in the St. Paul Pioneer Press, Baron von Maltzan reminded his hearers of the "splendid work of relief" closely associated with the name of Herbert Hoover and of the reparations plan of Charles G. Dawes.

That Germany is "getting on its feet" is noted by the assertion of the ambassador that last year the exports from the United States to Germany amounted to more than all the exports to South America.

He saw the shaken body of the boy and he heard the agony of his tones as he sobbed: "Yes, Amaryllis. You belong to them. You have got to go."

Then he saw Amaryllis stamp her little foot.

"I don't! I don't!" she shrieked. "I don't belong to them! They don't belong to me! They don't want me! I belong to you. I belong to you, John Guido, just to you!"

To that the boy said never a word. He reached his arms once more and again he covered the little gold head with kisses and again it was Amaryllis who stepped back, and again her voice was very distinct.

"John Guido," she said. "If they come to get me, I won't stay with them. I'll run away from them again, and I'll come back to you. Every time they get me, I'll come back to you. If they get me a thousand times, some way I'll get away from them, and I'll come back to you. Do you want me, John Guido?"

The dark haired boy fell on his knees on the hard-worn, narrow footpath there in the neglected garden and stretched out his arms. "Want you, Amaryllis?" he said. "Do I want you? Even God up in Heaven doesn't know how much I want you!"

Right there Mr. Paul Minton felt the hand of the police lieutenant on his shoulder, and he knew that there was no more time to be wasted. Business was business. The episode was over. The Minton child had been found. It was time to race back to the city and find some one else's child. So he pushed the rickety gate a little wider open and stepped through.

When he becomes a very old man, with very white hair and shaky hands, he will still remember the horror on the face of little Amaryllis when she looked up and saw him coming down the pathway. He heard the shrill shriek that broke from her lips. He saw her catch the hands of the boy and try to drag him with her as she turned to flee.

TY COBB, SIMMONS, SUSPENDED SAYS BAN

BECAUSE OF THEIR CONDUCT ON THURSDAY

COBB DROVE BALL OVER FENCE, UMPIRE DECLARED IT FOUL

MEMBERS OF THE ATHLETICS INSISTED IT WAS FAIR BALL

Chicago, May 7.—(UP)—Ty Cobb and Al Simmons, star players of the Philadelphia Athletics, have been indefinitely suspended, the office of Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League, announced here today.

The suspensions were inflicted, it was said, because of the conduct of Cobb and Simmons in Thursday's game at Washington when Cobb drove a ball over the fence which the umpires called foul but which members of the Athletics insisted was fair.

Charges were made against the two Philadelphia players by Umpire George Ormsby, who was officiating in the Boston-Philadelphia game on Thursday.

Cobb's home run would have given the Athletics a lead and after Cobb had hit over the fence he started dashing towards first base. He was called back and immediately started an argument with Ormsby.

Simmons, according to the charges ran to the plate and both he and Cobb engaged in a prolonged verbal tilt with the umpire. Ormsby finally ordered both players from the field and the fans started shouts against Ormsby.

When the game was ended the fans again started towards Ormsby and he was led to the locker rooms under police guard.

President Ban Johnson made the suspension decision this morning and immediately left the city. Members of his staff would not discuss the situation other than to admit Cobb and Simmons were suspended.

REAL DOPE ON PENNANT CHANCES GIVEN

FIRST INTERSECTIONAL BATTLES OF MAJOR LEAGUES THIS SEASON

GIANTS HAVE BEEN FORCED TO "CLUB" THEIR WAY ALONG

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 7—Some real dope on the pennant chances of the outstanding clubs in the major leagues may be obtained from the first intersectional battles of the season.

The strong eastern American League clubs were to open today in the west and the powerful western National League clubs were under way in the east.

So far the New York Giants have been playing around with the Boston Braves, the Philadelphia Phillies and the Brooklyn Robins while the western clubs have been knocking each other off.

The Braves, Phillies and Robins may not be push-overs, but they certainly do not compare in class with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds, of course, are at present a last place club but they have enough pitching to bother any club in the league and it is a cinch they will get going eventually.

John McGraw, manager of the Giants, disputes the contention that the schedule gave his club such a big early season advantage.

He insists the strength of the three weak sisters of the league has been underestimated and he predicted that the western clubs will run into just as much trouble against them as the Giants did.

McGraw also points out that the Giants have been forced to "club" their way, as the pitching staff is not in condition and will not be until warmer weather comes. McGraw and a lot of eastern house holders who are looking at the coal pile are wondering when that warmer weather is coming.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who came east as a first place club, are in a very favorable position as they are getting the best pitching in the league and the eastern clubs haven't been looking at much high class pitching. They also will have the advantage of meeting the Giants when the New York club is not going at its best and these early games count just as much in the standing as the late September battles.

After battling around with the strong Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators, the New York Yankees expect to find easier going in the west but the Chicago White Sox, the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Browns certainly cannot be classed as easy marks.

The White Sox, the surprise club of the year, will get their first real test against the Yankees.

Ray Schalk's club has been getting splendid pitching but it will need every bit of it when it faces the slugging Yankees and Athletics.

The intersectional games will help to show what really ails the Cleveland Indians and the Cincinnati Reds. The change of scenery may give them the push they need.

ETHAN ALLEN WALLOPS HOMER IN THE SIXTH

WITH ONE ON GIVES THE REDS A LEAD OVER BOSTON

CONTRIBUTES TO TEAM'S FINAL 5 TO 3 VICTORY

(By United Press)

Yesterday's hero—Ethan Allen of Cincinnati whose home run in the sixth with one on gave the Reds a lead over Boston and contributed to the team's final 5 to 3 victory. The game at the Braves' park was the only one played in the majors yesterday, rain preventing other contests scheduled.

Allen accomplished the near-impossible when he hit the ball over the left field wall—a drive which has only been made twice before in the Boston park.

Milwaukee — Louisville hit two Milwaukee pitchers at will and won the first game between the two teams this season, 9 to 5.

Kansas City—Frequent errors by Kansas City were largely responsible for Indianapolis' 10 to 4 victory.

St. Paul—Five hits and two errors in the sixth inning gave Toledo seven runs and a victory of 9 to 6 over St. Paul.

Minneapolis — Columbus never caught up with the Millers after the latter scored three runs in the third. The final score was Minneapolis 4, Columbus 3.

THE FIREMEN WIN A GAME

DEMPSEY WILL NOT HAVE TO TAKE EXAMINATION

NOT NECESSARY TO PROVE FITNESS BEFORE HE FIGHTS IN NEW YORK

JAMES A. FARLEY, NEW YORK BOXING COMMISSIONER, IN STATEMENT

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 7.—Jack Dempsey will not have to submit to any special examination to prove his fitness before he fights again in New York, James A. Farley, chairman of the New York boxing commission, told the United Press today.

With unusual heat Farley denied a report that he had ordered Dempsey to be examined thoroughly before a board of experts to prove that he was in condition.

"I never said such a thing and I know I can speak for the other members of the commission," Farley said.

"If Dempsey wants to fight again in New York all he has to do is to comply with the rules of the commission which provide fighters must weigh in eight hours before the time of the contest and be passed by the examining doctor.

"We had a case just a few days ago when stories were circulated that Billy Stribling had a lame back and would not be able to fight Tommy Loughran. We did not force him through any more than the routine medical and physical examination that was required by the rules. Another doctor acting with our official examiner but he was the representative of the club promoting the fight and he was not called in by us.

"The reports that we wanted to put Dempsey through a special examination are silly, so silly that I got quite a kick out of the suggestion of one writer who hinted the best way Dempsey could show his condition would be to line us up and take a few socks at us.

"In a position like ours, we have to take a lot of criticism but I have lost my patience over the accusation that I have a grudge against Dempsey and the champion, Gene Tunney.

"I have been called responsible for the fact that Dempsey and Tunney fought in Philadelphia instead of in New York. Perhaps it was my insistence that the rules be observed that prevented the fight from being held in New York but the rules are there and we must try to have them enforced.

"According to the rules, Harry Wills was the first challenger on the list and permitted and deserved our support. I will admit that our judgment did not stand so well when Tunney defeated Dempsey and Jack Sharkey made a mess out of Wills. But I insist that we stuck by our rules.

"We are hearing complaints now that we will not accept Dempsey as the logical challenger for the heavyweight championship. And I do not think he is the logical challenger—for this reason:

"Dempsey is not matched to fight Paulino or any other fighter and Maloney and Sharkey are matched. They are contenders. We must admit that. They have done everything that has been asked of them. However I am sure Dempsey will do the same thing if he intends to return to the ring.

"But Dempsey has done nothing definite yet and Maloney and Sharkey have. When Dempsey is matched he will be treated with consideration. I always have had a high regard for Dempsey as a fighter and as a man. We have had our official differences, but personally I never have held anything against the former champion or the present champion.

"It is all a question of the rules and when you are placed in a position where you have to hold to the rules you have to take the raps both ways and in the middle."

HUGE TRACK AND FIELD EVENTS AT NEW YORK CITY

New York, May 7.—(UP)—More than 2,000 athletes were expected to take part in three track and field events here today. Eleven hundred marathon runners were to take part in a race from the Bronx to the city hall. Clarence Demar, veteran winner of this year's Boston marathon, was the favorite. Seven hundred high school boys were to compete in the Public Schools Athletic league meet at Brooklyn. At least 200 more athletes were to participate in the Military Athletic league meet, the Bayonne A. C. meet and the New York university-Lehigh dual competition.

BEST COLTS OF COUNTRY AT PIMLICO

PREAKNESS IS RICHEST OF EASTERN RACE PRIZES

SECOND ONLY TO KENTUCKY DERBY IN POPULARITY

Pimlico Racetrack, Md., May 7.—(UP)—Eighty-five of the best three year old colts and fillies in training in the country have been nominated for the $50,000 added Preakness, which will be run Monday at Pimlico.

The Preakness, richest of eastern race prizes, and second only to the Kentucky Derby in popularity, is to be decided over the mile and three-sixteenths distance, and judging from the number of first class horses on the ground there will be around twenty starters.

As usual, the east leads in number of candidates. The stables include the Belair Stud, Foxcatcher Farms, Walter M. Jefferods, Greentree Stable, Rancocas Stable, Walter J. Salmon, H. P. Whitney, and others. The west is represented by Audley Farms, H. T. Archibald, Idle Hour Farm and Half Price Headley.

Scapa Flow, Walter M. Jeffords' three year old son of Man O' War-Florence Webber, and champion two year old of the country in 1926, will undoubtedly rule a hot favorite.

Harry Payne Whitney has named eight candidates, including Pandera, Termagant, Whiskery, Bostonian and Valorous. Pandera and Whiskery were both easy winners of their last stake engagements at this track and should rule second choice to the illustrious son of Man O' War.

It is doubtful whether Colonel E. R. Bradley will send any horses from his Idle Hour Farm stable to compete for the prize, but if he should, Boo, champion of New Orleans winter racing, will have to be considered.

Greentree Stable is well represented with three good stake horses — Adios, Saxon and Lodiana. Walter J. Salmon will send Black Panther to the post and Rancocas Stable is sure to start Sweepster and Cheops, both of which have been doing everything expected of them this spring.

Maryland race fans also may get a chance to see the $100,000 foreigner, The Satrap, in action, although Max has not definitely decided to start him.

The winners' share of the Preakness will be around $66,000, with $5,000 for second, $3,000 for third, and $2,000 for fourth.

A clear day and a lightning fast track are expected.

All reserved seats, boxes and standing room have been sold out for two weeks.

Changing their line-up around, adding Fogelstrom, Fuller and Bernard to the team and with Dean White in the box, the Firemen worked like top notchers, breaking in the win column for the first time.

White pitched good ball for the winners, and had good support. The Firemen had a big first inning, scoring 7 runs by consistent hitting. Whitlock did well, pitching for the Store Room, but had faltering support at critical times. Tribur played a real game behind the bat.

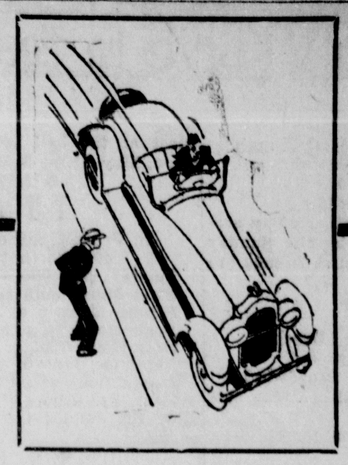

The interesting part of the game was that eight of the ten Firemen each scored a run, Bernard scoring the other 3. Whitlock scored two for the Store Room.

PIRATES SHONE AT BAT WITH TWO TRIPLES AND FOUR TWO-BAGGERS

The Southeast Pirates trounced the South Seventh Street Tigers in a baseball game in Southeast Brainerd Saturday morning. The score was 17 to 10.

Dahlson and Erickson were the battery for the Southeast boys while Miller and Wise performed for the South side gang. Both teams are made up of boys from 11 to 14 years.

This is the second game played by the two teams this season. The little Pirates rapped out two three-base hits and four two-baggers during the game.

COBB DROVE BALL OVER FENCE, UMPIRE DECLARED IT FOUL

MEMBERS OF THE ATHLETICS INSISTED IT WAS FAIR BALL

Chicago, May 7.—(UP)—Ty Cobb and Al Simmons, star players of the Philadelphia Athletics, have been indefinitely suspended, the office of Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League, announced here today.

The suspensions were inflicted, it was said, because of the conduct of Cobb and Simmons in Thursday's game at Washington when Cobb drove a ball over the fence which the umpires called foul but which members of the Athletics insisted was fair.

Charges were made against the two Philadelphia players by Umpire George Ormsby, who was officiating in the Boston-Philadelphia game on Thursday.

Simmons, according to the charges ran to the plate and both he and Cobb engaged in a prolonged verbal tilt with the umpire. Ormsby finally ordered both players from the field and the fans started shouts against Ormsby.

When the game was ended the fans again started towards Ormsby and he was led to the locker rooms under police guard.

President Ban Johnson made the suspension decision this morning and immediately left the city. Members of his staff would not discuss the situation other than to admit Cobb and Simmons were suspended.

John McGraw, manager of the Giants, disputes the contention that the schedule gave his club such a big early season advantage.

He insists the strength of the three weak sisters of the league has been underestimated and he predicted that the western clubs will run into just as much trouble against them as the Giants did.

McGraw also points out that the Giants have been forced to "club" their way, as the pitching staff is not in condition and will not be until warmer weather comes. McGraw and a lot of eastern house holders who are looking at the coal pile are wondering when that warmer weather is coming.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who came east as a first place club, are in a very favorable position as they are getting the best pitching in the league and the eastern clubs haven't been looking at much high class pitching. They also will have the advantage of meeting the Giants when the New York club is not going at its best and these early games count just as much in the standing as the late September battles.

After battling around with the strong Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators, the New York Yankees expect to find easier going in the west but the Chicago White Sox, the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Browns certainly cannot be classed as easy marks.

The White Sox, the surprise club of the year, will get their first real test against the Yankees.

Ray Schalk's club has been getting splendid pitching but it will need every bit of it when it faces the slugging Yankees and Athletics.

The intersectional games will help to show what really ails the Cleveland Indians and the Cincinnati Reds. The change of scenery may give them the push they need.

ETHAN ALLEN WALLOPS HOMER IN THE SIXTH

WITH ONE ON GIVES THE REDS A LEAD OVER BOSTON

CONTRIBUTES TO TEAM'S FINAL 5 TO 3 VICTORY

(By United Press)

Yesterday's hero—Ethan Allen of Cincinnati whose home run in the sixth with one on gave the Reds a lead over Boston and contributed to the team's final 5 to 3 victory. The game at the Braves' park was the only one played in the majors yesterday, rain preventing other contests scheduled.

Allen accomplished the near-impossible when he hit the ball over the left field wall—a drive which has only been made twice before in the Boston park.

Milwaukee — Louisville hit two Milwaukee pitchers at will and won the first game between the two teams this season, 9 to 5.

Kansas City—Frequent errors by Kansas City were largely responsible for Indianapolis' 10 to 4 victory.

St. Paul—Five hits and two errors in the sixth inning gave Toledo seven runs and a victory of 9 to 6 over St. Paul.

Minneapolis — Columbus never caught up with the Millers after the latter scored three runs in the third. The final score was Minneapolis 4, Columbus 3.

DEMPSEY WILL NOT HAVE TO TAKE EXAMINATION

NOT NECESSARY TO PROVE FITNESS BEFORE HE FIGHTS IN NEW YORK

JAMES A. FARLEY, NEW YORK BOXING COMMISSIONER, IN STATEMENT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 7.—Jack Dempsey will not have to submit to any special examination to prove his fitness before he fights again in New York, James A. Farley, chairman of the New York boxing commission, told the United Press today.

With unusual heat Farley denied a report that he had ordered Dempsey to be examined thoroughly before a board of experts to prove that he was in condition.

"I never said such a thing and I know I can speak for the other members of the commission," Farley said.

"If Dempsey wants to fight again in New York all he has to do is to comply with the rules of the commission which provide fighters must weigh in eight hours before the time of the contest and be passed by the examining doctor.

"We had a case just a few days ago when stories were circulated that Billy Stribling had a lame back and would not be able to fight Tommy Loughran. We did not force him through any more than the routine medical and physical examination that was required by the rules. Another doctor acting with our official examiner but he was the representative of the club promoting the fight and he was not called in by us.

"The reports that we wanted to put Dempsey through a special examination are silly, so silly that I got quite a kick out of the suggestion of one writer who hinted the best way Dempsey could show his condition would be to line us up and take a few socks at us.

"In a position like ours, we have to take a lot of criticism but I have lost my patience over the accusation that I have a grudge against Dempsey and the champion, Gene Tunney.

"I have been called responsible for the fact that Dempsey and Tunney fought in Philadelphia instead of in New York. Perhaps it was my insistence that the rules be observed that prevented the fight from being held in New York but the rules are there and we must try to have them enforced.

"According to the rules, Harry Wills was the first challenger on the list and permitted and deserved our support. I will admit that our judgment did not stand so well when Tunney defeated Dempsey and Jack Sharkey made a mess out of Wills. But I insist that we stuck by our rules.

"We are hearing complaints now that we will not accept Dempsey as the logical challenger for the heavyweight championship. And I do not think he is the logical challenger—for this reason:

"Dempsey is not matched to fight Paulino or any other fighter and Maloney and Sharkey are matched. They are contenders. We must admit that. They have done everything that has been asked of them. However I am sure Dempsey will do the same thing if he intends to return to the ring.

"But Dempsey has done nothing definite yet and Maloney and Sharkey have. When Dempsey is matched he will be treated with consideration. I always have had a high regard for Dempsey as a fighter and as a man. We have had our official differences, but personally I never have held anything against the former champion or the present champion.

"It is all a question of the rules and when you are placed in a position where you have to hold to the rules you have to take the raps both ways and in the middle."

HELEN WILLS AFTER TENNIS LAURELS

Berkeley, Calif., May 7.—(UP)—Helen Wills has started on a trip she hopes will lead her to the American tennis title she relinquished last year. Accompanied by her mother, she is on her way east. She will sail from New York May 14 in quest of honors in the Wimbledon tournament. She will return to this country in July and seek a "comeback."

BEST COLTS OF COUNTRY AT PIMLICO

PREAKNESS IS RICHEST OF EASTERN RACE PRIZES

SECOND ONLY TO KENTUCKY DERBY IN POPULARITY

Pimlico Racetrack, Md., May 7.—(UP)—Eighty-five of the best three year old colts and fillies in training in the country have been nominated for the $50,000 added Preakness, which will be run Monday at Pimlico.

The Preakness, richest of eastern race prizes, and second only to the Kentucky Derby in popularity, is to be decided over the mile and three-sixteenths distance, and judging from the number of first class horses on the ground there will be around twenty starters.

As usual, the east leads in number of candidates. The stables include the Belair Stud, Foxcatcher Farms, Walter M. Jefferods, Greentree Stable, Rancocas Stable, Walter J. Salmon, H. P. Whitney, and others. The west is represented by Audley Farms, H. T. Archibald, Idle Hour Farm and Half Price Headley.

Scapa Flow, Walter M. Jeffords' three year old son of Man O' War-Florence Webber, and champion two year old of the country in 1926, will undoubtedly rule a hot favorite.

Harry Payne Whitney has named eight candidates, including Pandera, Termagant, Whiskery, Bostonian and Valorous. Pandera and Whiskery were both easy winners of their last stake engagements at this track and should rule second choice to the illustrious son of Man O' War.

It is doubtful whether Colonel E. R. Bradley will send any horses from his Idle Hour Farm stable to compete for the prize, but if he should, Boo, champion of New Orleans winter racing, will have to be considered.

Greentree Stable is well represented with three good stake horses — Adios, Saxon and Lodiana. Walter J. Salmon will send Black Panther to the post and Rancocas Stable is sure to start Sweepster and Cheops, both of which have been doing everything expected of them this spring.

Maryland race fans also may get a chance to see the $100,000 foreigner, The Satrap, in action, although Max has not definitely decided to start him.

The winners' share of the Preakness will be around $66,000, with $5,000 for second, $3,000 for third, and $2,000 for fourth.

A clear day and a lightning fast track are expected.

All reserved seats, boxes and standing room have been sold out for two weeks.

COMPLETE REVERSAL OF FORM

CHANGED LINE-UP CAUSES FIREMEN TO DEFEAT STORE-ROOM, 11 TO 4

Showing a complete reversal of form, the Firemen's kittenball team last night defeated the Store Room, 11 to 4. Changing their line-up around, adding Fogelstrom, Fuller and Bernard to the team and with Dean White in the box, the Firemen worked like top notchers, breaking in the win column for the first time.

White pitched good ball for the winners, and had good support. The Firemen had a big first inning, scoring 7 runs by consistent hitting. Whitlock did well, pitching for the Store Room, but had faltering support at critical times. Tribur played a real game behind the bat.

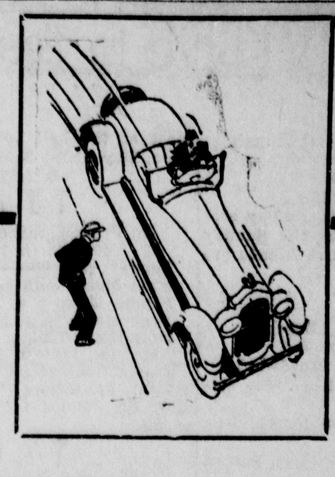

The interesting part of the game was that eight of the ten Firemen each scored a run, Bernard scoring the other 3. Whitlock scored two for the Store Room.

Score by innings:

S. E. PIRATES 17, SO. 7TH TIGERS 10

PIRATES SHONE AT BAT WITH TWO TRIPLES AND FOUR TWO-BAGGERS

The Southeast Pirates trounced the South Seventh Street Tigers in a baseball game in Southeast Brainerd Saturday morning. The score was 17 to 10.

Dahlson and Erickson were the battery for the Southeast boys while Miller and Wise performed for the South side gang. Both teams are made up of boys from 11 to 14 years.

This is the second game played by the two teams this season. The little Pirates rapped out two three-base hits and four two-baggers during the game.

Nowadays . . . you press a button

Or perhaps a switch, or some little gadjet, and a lot of things happen around a home that lighten labor and banish trouble.

A whirling fan brings a cooling breeze, and a little copper, dish-like affair throws out a sizzling blast that warms the room in no time.

Another button boils coffee, toasts bread and cooks waffles. Another does a better job than a broom. Another makes a happy laundress out of a dismal washwoman. Another one cools the ice-box. Another—but why go on?

Labor and time saving devices have come and are today within the reach of the humblest home.

And one of the chief reasons why they have come and why they are within the reach of the humblest home is the power of advertising.

Advertising has carried the news of these better ways of doing things to every home. It has created a desire to possess them, and countless thousands have purchased them, and live better because of them.

Reading advertising not only tells you about new, helpful mechanical devices for the home, but it is an unfailing guide to reliable products.

Read advertising regularly. It points the way to better living

PRODIGAL SONS

Rev. Peterson in Powerful Sermon at Swedish Baptist Church

Rev. Peterson spoke last night at the Swedish Baptist church on the theme "Prodigal Sons."

He said in part that the desire of youth is to get away from home is to be free from the restraints of home and the loving counsels of mother. It is the plan of our adversary to get us away, singled out from friends, that we may be tossed in the crowd. It is easier for him to destroy our fortifications when we are alone.

After awhile we discover that friends seek our companionship and smile and welcome us with hearty handclasps. Remember not everyone that smiles is a friend, nor is everyone that pats us on the shoulder interested in our welfare, said he.

As long as we have something to give we have companions whether we have money, or virtue, or innocence, or purity to give. When we have been robbed of all we have that is noble by sin we are deserted by friends and companions and left alone in the want of ruin.

Only Jesus is the truest friend to have in all life's experiences for He is interested in our eternal welfare.

Sunday closes the campaign at the Swedish Baptist church. Three services Sunday, 10:30 a. m. in Swedish and 3 p. m. and 7:45 p. m. English services.

Sunday afternoon the First Baptist church choir will sing and Rev. Peterson will play a violin solo.

Sunday night the First Baptist choir will sing and Rev. Peterson will speak on the theme, "Have You The Password?" This closing sermon is especially attractive and interesting to young and old alike.

Choosing a Career for Peter

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

FROM the day Peter Gray was born, his mother anticipated his future. At first, that future dealt largely with certified milk, specialized diets and private kindergardens, but as Peter grew into a sturdy boyhood, there arose the vital question of what he was going to make of himself. Should he choose business or a profession? Should he go in for art, for music, for literature?

When he was due to graduate from an expensive and exclusive prep school his mother went on to it for commencement. Also, to consult about her son with the men who had been his guides, philosophers and presumably friends. Surely, they would have detected in her Peter some bent, some flair which indicated the line along which he should be trained.

When she put the problem to Peter's mathematics instructor, that gentleman considered a moment before replying. Then, "Forgive me, Mrs. Gray," he said gently. "But really your boy hasn't brains enough to run a stop watch."

Taken rather aback—as who wouldn't have been—Peter's mother still hoped that the boy's English teacher could offer something more encouraging.

"Has my son any inclination for—er—writing or, possibly, poetry?" she began.

This time the answer was prompt enough. "Writing, madam? Poetry? That most delicate of the arts? Lord, no! There is nothing of the artist about him."

Mrs. Gray made one more try. "Tell me," she pleaded of Jake Crowley, the athletic coach. "Is my boy good at sports?"

Jake threw back his massive head. "Lord love you, Mrs. Gray! Your Peter can't remember the difference between a hold and a tackle, a home run or a touchdown! But he makes a fine figure in running pants or plus fours and, gosh, how the girls adore him!"

When Peter's mother reached home, she told an intimate friend that her trip had proved invaluable inasmuch as it showed her unmistakably that for which her boy was most fitted. What that was she neglected to say, but the friend gathered that Peter's future would be shaped accordingly.

And so it was. Peter was sent to a fashionable college with plenty of money and the sort of wardrobe that would be approved in "Gentlemen's Wear"—if there is such a magazine.

During his vacations, his mother entertained for him lavishly, including, among other young buds of the season, Miss Patty Gale, whose father had recently made millions in furs.

Peter had always known Patty, but there had been a time when Mrs. Gray thought the Gales a cut beneath her.

Certainly, when home, Peter fairly lived at the Gales, and when his junior prom loomed in the offing, he promptly invited the whole Gale family to it.

Mrs. Gray, who had gamely stood the cost of box, taxis, flowers, and what not, was frankly disappointed when nothing evidently came of it. She tried Peter out after the dance itself when a full moon, lantern-lighted campus, and the seductive waltzes of a metropolitan orchestra might reasonably be supposed to have got in their romantic work.

"Patty is a fine girl, Peter."

"Sure is," said Peter carelessly.

"Deserves a good husband."

"Righto, ma mere. Got any cigarettes? Oh, I forgot you don't smoke!"

"Peter—don't be horrid!" Mrs. Gray had learned nothing for her pains.

She did not go on for her son's commencement. It was a great blow when she knew that Peter would not receive a diploma. He had made a fraternity—one of the best—and had invited his mother to pour at the commencement week tea. But, although the Gales were going en masse, Peter's mother stayed home.

She was totally unprepared for his bursting in upon her a day ahead of his expected arrival, his eyes shining, his whole face, in fact, alight.

"Had to dash right home to tell you, mother!" he cried, grabbing her in his arms and dancing her around in spite of herself. "I'm engaged! I'm engaged! I'm engaged!"

"Oh, Peter!" said Mrs. Gray feebly. Then, spurred by one last hope, "is it Patty?"

"Patty? My eye, no! She's been married three months to my roommate. Had to keep it secret, so he could graduate. No, siree. To the finest little girl in the world. None other than Patty's sister, Cathleen!"

To this day, Mrs. Gray doesn't know whether the credit of Peter's marriage should be laid at her door or not. Surely, if Peter had not been thrown so much with Patty, he would not have come in contact with Patty's pretty, clever little sub deb sister. And surely Mrs. Gray would never have thrown him with Patty had she not made up her mind at Peter's prep school commencement that the only career her son was fitted for was that of husband to a rich wife.

At any rate, in the years which followed, Mrs. Gray saw no reason to regret the way things had turned out. On all sides, she heard echoed the remark she frequently made herself: "Peter was cut out to make a fine husband."

And, after all, there are worse things.

JUNGLE GROWS OVER ONCE MIGHTY CITY

Americans Find Place Older Than Ancient Rome.

A city in Indo-China, known through Chinese literature to have been old and powerful when Rome was new, has just been discovered by the Americans—Harry Hervey and Carlton Hildreth.

Writing of the lost city, in McCall's Magazine, Mr. Hildreth tells of the people whose decaying capital he helped in discovering:

"The Khmers were a people more mysterious than the Incas, and their greatness is comparable with the civilizations of China and Babylon. Indeed, the ancient Khmer capital, Angkor-Thom, whose ruins stand today in the Cambodian jungles, was a city more thrilling than Rome at its height.

"The Khmer empire reached its height in the Twelfth century, then declined, and after a series of wars with the Thai race (now the Siamese) and the people of Chiampa (modern Annam) the Khmers slipped out of history, leaving the ruins of their mighty cities and a few meager inscriptions as the only records of their spectacular rise and fall. What became of the Khmers? Did their defeated armies retreat into the hinterlands and there build other cities? Or did they die out, leaving only a thin stream of their glorious blood to filter down through the centuries into the present-day natives of Cambodia?"

Mr. Hervey adds to what is known of the city as a result of his exploration. He traces something of the rise of the city and says:

"It was Suryavarman II, some centuries later, who ordered the building of Angkor-Wat. Out of the toil and death of thousands of slaves that mammoth edifice rose stone upon stone, tier upon tier, until, its towers crowned with golden lotus, it dominated the surrounding marshy jungle and the torn pyramids of Angkor-Thom, a monument to the cruelty and magnificence of the Khmers.

"Near the end of the Twelfth century the empire reached its height. A comparatively short time after that—between the years of 1295 and 1297—Angkor was visited by a Chinese ambassador, Tcheou-ta Khouan, whose memoirs are the only records of the manners and customs of this people.

"The splendor of Angkor at the time of Tcheou-ta-Khouan's visit was prodigal. Golden rot was eating into the heart of the Khmer empire. In one mighty gesture, spending their wealth and their strength, these people had built Angkor—and their own tomb. In the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries they were attacked again by the Chams, also by the great Thai race, the Siamese. Then the slaves rose up against them. The end of the Fourteenth century saw the last of Angkor's lavish beauty and brutality.

"As a final ironic humiliation, the city deserted, sacked and delivered over to the jungle, whose monstrous greenness inundated it, ripped wide its exquisite walls, tore its gods from their shrines, and held it captive until, more than 500 years later, a wandering Frenchman came upon it and so stirred his country with his account of its greatness that in 1907 France acquired it from Siam by one of those political feints which is called diplomacy. . . . Thus ends a history brazen as a scarlet poppy."

Among the great number of new houses required for men to work the new Kent coal field are some that are being built on a novel plan.

The walls are 6 inches thick apart from the inner half-inch coating of plaster. The outer three inches are of concrete, while next to the plaster are two inches of compressed cinder, called breeze. Between the concrete and the breeze is one inch of compressed cork! The whole is built solidly about a steel frame, the cork taking the place of the usual airspace in the wall.

The cork, being a nonconductor of heat, keeps the heat in during winter and keeps it out in summer, and those already in occupation are proving very comfortable on that account. Over a hundred have been built during the past twelve months, and two hundred more are under construction.—London Tit-Bits.

He Had Proof

The young son of a certain family having among its musical friends one of the best singers of the city, whose name is often mentioned in connection with musical affairs, came to his mother one day saying:

"Did you know that Mrs. —— sings at the Lyric?"

"No, my dear, she sings in concerts and some times in church, but not at the Lyric," replied mother.

"Well," said he triumphantly, "look here at this program, it says 'Mrs. ——, lyric soprano.'"

And then it was up to mother to explain what a lyric soprano is.

Wind-Made Snowballs

The wind made snowballs and George E. Sanderson of West Townshend, Vt., says he never saw anything like it in his sixty-four years. Meadows owned by Mr. Sanderson and John Chapin adjoin, making a comparatively level area nine acres in extent and the entire acreage was covered with snowballs. The snow was wet, so it did not drift, but the wind rolled it up into balls from three to ten inches in diameter.—Boston Globe.

MOVE TO RESTORE "OLD FIRST" CHURCH

Worthy Tribute to Memory of Washington.

The recent observance of Washington's birthday calls attention to a movement now afoot which is inextricably bound up with his memory and which, although originating and progressing in another city, has transcended its bounds to interest many outsiders, and particularly those who reside in the capital city which is his namesake. This is the campaign to raise $10,000 for the restoration of the historic "Old First" Presbyterian church of Alexandria, Va., together with its burying ground, in which 20 different organizations—civic, fraternal, patriotic, Masonic, benevolent and racial—are co-operating.

What remains of the edifice, which was begun two years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence and which was founded by Scottish Covenanters, stands on South Fairfax street, named in honor of that Lord Fairfax who was George Washington's friend and benefactor. Even though Alexandria strongly sympathized with and as Virginia soil was part of the South during the troubled time of the Civil war, the church membership adhered to the Northern assembly and eventually, in 1886, expired as an active church body. Today, however, members of this faith residing there are waging a vigorous campaign both in northern and southern quarters to restore the old structure, not alone because of its historic interest, but as a symbol of renewed accord between North and South.

In this building it was that the Alexandria lodge of Masons over which the Father of His Country presided as worshipful master, held its first religious ceremony, and there Washington, in his official capacity, attended on similar occasions in the years following. In this building was held one of the earliest, if not the earliest, celebrations of his birthday, that of February 22, 1800.

In the adjoining graveyard lie fellow Masonic personal friends and contemporaries of the First President. Their last resting places are in many cases sadly neglected. Therein repose the mortal remains of that Dr. James Craik who eased the dying hero's last moments and who later closed the eyes of his devoted wife. There lie Col. Dennis Ramsay, his personal friend; Rev. Dr. James Muir, who officiated at his funeral; Maj. John Carlyle, Braddock's quartermaster general.

Well-Known Constellation

The Southern cross is a brilliant group of stars in the southern hemisphere, first reckoned a constellation in 1679. The four principal stars form a sort of cross. The upper and lower ones serve as a pointer to the South pole. It cannot be seen in the northern hemisphere except from very near the equator.

PRODIGAL SONS

Rev. Peterson in Powerful Sermon at Swedish Baptist Church

Rev. Peterson spoke last night at the Swedish Baptist church on the theme "Prodigal Sons."

He said in part that the desire of youth is to get away from home is to be free from the restraints of home and the loving counsels of mother. It is the plan of our adversary to get us away, singled out from friends, that we may be tossed in the crowd. It is easier for him to destroy our fortifications when we are alone.

After awhile we discover that friends seek our companionship and smile and welcome us with hearty handclasps. Remember not everyone that smiles is a friend, nor is everyone that pats us on the shoulder interested in our welfare, said he.

As long as we have something to give we have companions whether we have money, or virtue, or innocence, or purity to give. When we have been robbed of all we have that is noble by sin we are deserted by friends and companions and left alone in the want of ruin.

Only Jesus is the truest friend to have in all life's experiences for He is interested in our eternal welfare.

Sunday closes the campaign at the Swedish Baptist church. Three services Sunday, 10:30 a. m. in Swedish and 3 p. m. and 7:45 p. m. English services.

Sunday afternoon the First Baptist church choir will sing and Rev. Peterson will play a violin solo.

Sunday night the First Baptist choir will sing and Rev. Peterson will speak on the theme, "Have You The Password?" This closing sermon is especially attractive and interesting to young and old alike.

Choosing a Career for Peter

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

FROM the day Peter Gray was born, his mother anticipated his future. At first, that future dealt largely with certified milk, specialized diets and private kindergardens, but as Peter grew into a sturdy boyhood, there arose the vital question of what he was going to make of himself. Should he choose business or a profession? Should he go in for art, for music, for literature?

When he was due to graduate from an expensive and exclusive prep school his mother went on to it for commencement. Also, to consult about her son with the men who had been his guides, philosophers and presumably friends. Surely, they would have detected in her Peter some bent, some flair which indicated the line along which he should be trained.

When she put the problem to Peter's mathematics instructor, that gentleman considered a moment before replying. Then, "Forgive me, Mrs. Gray," he said gently. "But really your boy hasn't brains enough to run a stop watch."

Taken rather aback—as who wouldn't have been—Peter's mother still hoped that the boy's English teacher could offer something more encouraging.

"Has my son any inclination for—er—writing or, possibly, poetry?" she began.

This time the answer was prompt enough. "Writing, madam? Poetry? That most delicate of the arts? Lord, no! There is nothing of the artist about him."

Mrs. Gray made one more try. "Tell me," she pleaded of Jake Crowley, the athletic coach. "Is my boy good at sports?"

Jake threw back his massive head. "Lord love you, Mrs. Gray! Your Peter can't remember the difference between a hold and a tackle, a home run or a touchdown! But he makes a fine figure in running pants or plus fours and, gosh, how the girls adore him!"

When Peter's mother reached home, she told an intimate friend that her trip had proved invaluable inasmuch as it showed her unmistakably that for which her boy was most fitted. What that was she neglected to say, but the friend gathered that Peter's future would be shaped accordingly.

And so it was. Peter was sent to a fashionable college with plenty of money and the sort of wardrobe that would be approved in "Gentlemen's Wear"—if there is such a magazine.

During his vacations, his mother entertained for him lavishly, including, among other young buds of the season, Miss Patty Gale, whose father had recently made millions in furs.

Peter had always known Patty, but there had been a time when Mrs. Gray thought the Gales a cut beneath her.

Certainly, when home, Peter fairly lived at the Gales, and when his junior prom loomed in the offing, he promptly invited the whole Gale family to it.

Mrs. Gray, who had gamely stood the cost of box, taxis, flowers, and what not, was frankly disappointed when nothing evidently came of it. She tried Peter out after the dance itself when a full moon, lantern-lighted campus, and the seductive waltzes of a metropolitan orchestra might reasonably be supposed to have got in their romantic work.

"Patty is a fine girl, Peter."

"Sure is," said Peter carelessly.

"Deserves a good husband."

"Righto, ma mere. Got any cigarettes? Oh, I forgot you don't smoke!"

"Peter—don't be horrid!" Mrs. Gray had learned nothing for her pains.

She did not go on for her son's commencement. It was a great blow when she knew that Peter would not receive a diploma. He had made a fraternity—one of the best—and had invited his mother to pour at the commencement week tea. But, although the Gales were going en masse, Peter's mother stayed home.

She was totally unprepared for his bursting in upon her a day ahead of his expected arrival, his eyes shining, his whole face, in fact, alight.

"Had to dash right home to tell you, mother!" he cried, grabbing her in his arms and dancing her around in spite of herself. "I'm engaged! I'm engaged! I'm engaged!"

"Oh, Peter!" said Mrs. Gray feebly. Then, spurred by one last hope, "is it Patty?"

"Patty? My eye, no! She's been married three months to my roommate. Had to keep it secret, so he could graduate. No, siree. To the finest little girl in the world. None other than Patty's sister, Cathleen!"

To this day, Mrs. Gray doesn't know whether the credit of Peter's marriage should be laid at her door or not. Surely, if Peter had not been thrown so much with Patty, he would not have come in contact with Patty's pretty, clever little sub deb sister. And surely Mrs. Gray would never have thrown him with Patty had she not made up her mind at Peter's prep school commencement that the only career her son was fitted for was that of husband to a rich wife.

What remains of the edifice, which was begun two years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence and which was founded by Scottish Covenanters, stands on South Fairfax street, named in honor of that Lord Fairfax who was George Washington's friend and benefactor. Even though Alexandria strongly sympathized with and as Virginia soil was part of the South during the troubled time of the Civil war, the church membership adhered to the Northern assembly and eventually, in 1886, expired as an active church body. Today, however, members of this faith residing there are waging a vigorous campaign both in northern and southern quarters to restore the old structure, not alone because of its historic interest, but as a symbol of renewed accord between North and South.

In this building it was that the Alexandria lodge of Masons over which the Father of His Country presided as worshipful master, held its first religious ceremony, and there Washington, in his official capacity, attended on similar occasions in the years following. In this building was held one of the earliest, if not the earliest, celebrations of his birthday, that of February 22, 1800.

In the adjoining graveyard lie fellow Masonic personal friends and contemporaries of the First President. Their last resting places are in many cases sadly neglected. Therein repose the mortal remains of that Dr. James Craik who eased the dying hero's last moments and who later closed the eyes of his devoted wife. There lie Col. Dennis Ramsay, his personal friend; Rev. Dr. James Muir, who officiated at his funeral; Maj. John Carlyle, Braddock's quartermaster general.

Well-Known Constellation

The Southern cross is a brilliant group of stars in the southern hemisphere, first reckoned a constellation in 1679. The four principal stars form a sort of cross. The upper and lower ones serve as a pointer to the South pole. It cannot be seen in the northern hemisphere except from very near the equator.

THEY WANT THE NEWS

So J. Alfred Dillan, Now at Proctor, Sends for Brainerd Dispatch

J. Alfred Dillan, formerly of the local Y. M. C. A., in sending in his subscription for the Dispatch writes in part as follows:

"Jack Brown stays here at the Y. M. C. A. (Proctor) and we compare news notes occasionally, but decided today to get the real news first hand, hence the dollar. Good luck to you and best wishes to the Dispatch force."

Mr. Dillan left Brainerd about a week ago to assume his duties as secretary of the railroad Y. M. C. A. at Proctor, Minn. Jack Brown, the man of whom he speaks in his letter, was formerly employed at the N. P. shops here. Both are greatly interested in Brainerd news and the doing of Brainerd people.

RED CROSS FLOOD RELIEF

Donations Received at Dispatch Yesterday Totalled $285.75

ST. FRANCIS CONTRIBUTES

Parochial School is First of Schools in City to Send in Donation

At noon yesterday donations made for Red Cross flood relief, received by the Brainerd Dispatch for transmission to Brainerd Chapter of Red Cross, reached a total of $285.75.

The largest individual contributor to date is Mrs. J. M. Elder, who gave $25 and whose heart was touched by the awful desolation of this southern country, much of which she is acquainted with.

The first of the schools to report is St. Francis parochial school, whose principal, Sister Aurea, transmitted $6, being contributions of the school children.

Several contributors in these donations of the past few days declined to have their names mentioned, and so the donations appeared as being given by "a friend" and "John Doe."

With the full cooperation of all of Crow Wing county, it is hoped the quota, $1,000, can be reached. Every cent and more of the $10,000,000 national figure set, will be required for relief work and the reconstruction era that is to follow. Yesterday morning flood conditions were further aggravated in central Louisiana where one of that state's broad rivers jumped its banks and in some cases has spread over an area 40 miles wide. New Orleans is calmly awaiting the arrival of the crest of the flood. Brainerd people in the past have visited that historic southern city of which most of it lies 10 feet below the level of the top of its levees.

Mike Marea was in this morning from his far mon Hartley lake and gave $5 to the relief fund.

"I know that country from Memphis to New Orleans like a book. I lived there five years and my father was a levee builder for the government. June, in years past, always brought a rise in water and caused guards to be stationed to keep the levees from being cut by irresponsible people who thus sought to overflow the opposite side of the country.

For instance, Greenville, Mississippi, is about as high above the low water stage as Brainerd is above the Mississippi here. Right now there is about 10 feet of water running through the main part of that southern town. This can give Brainerd people an idea of the flood situation in that country.

"Everybody should contribute to the Red Cross until it makes their pocketbook squeal."

In speaking of dikes, Mr. Marea said some are 45 feet in height, 120 to 125 feet wide at the base. In the early days dikes were simply built of dirt and wheel barrows deposited the material in place. On a big curve or bend mattresses of willows and rock are put in to provide a nearly permanent foundation.

Another group contribution reached the Brainerd Dispatch office this morning when the donation of $10 was received from the Minnesota & International railway operating department office employes. The Red Cross hopes the example of such group contributions will be emulated by other departments not alone in rail but in business and other circles.

Rhodes, chairman, E. G. Roth, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Mrs. Irma C. Hartley, Harold Nelson and also Mrs. Harry Angst of Crosby.

PROGRESS OF THE BRAINERD BOYS' CONCERT BAND

By CARL ZAPFFE, JR.

There are three boys of the Brainerd Boys' Concert band playing snare drums, namely, John Ellison, Toisto Pahjola and Glendale Bentley.

John Ellison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ellison of 523 North Fourth street. John has been in the band since it was organized and until a short time ago was the only snare drum player. He is 16 years old and has had a very regular attendance.

Toisto Pahjola is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pahjola of 1419 Rosewood street. Toisto is a recent member of the band but promises to be an earnest member.

Glendale Bentley also joined the organization a short time ago and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bentley of 618 Nineteenth street.

The bass drum section is upheld by William Marshall son of Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall of 111 Fourth Ave. N. E. William joined the band rather recently on account of the resignation of the former drummer. He has accustomed himself already with many of the important points of playing a bass drum and promises to be just the person wanted for the job, as he has both suitable strength and talent.

Typewriting and Shorthand Subjects at the High School

60 PERSONS PRESENT

Luncheon Served at High School at Noon by Cooking Class

Contestants from eight high schools are in Brainerd today for district contests in speed and accuracy in shorthand and typewriting. The tests are being held at the high school.

Three tests, with two from each school taking part in each, are being given, one in shorthand and two in typewriting, one for beginning students and one for advanced classes.

About 60 persons are present, including teachers and students entered in the various competitions. A luncheon was served at the high school at noon by the cooking class under the direction of Miss Wanous, cooking teacher. Chicken a la king was the feature of the menu. Helen Paine and Mrs. H. C. Beresford will give readings during the dinner hour.

Eight schools are entered in the contests, the seven besides the local high school, being St. Cloud, Little Falls, Sauk Rapids, Bemidji, Crosby-Ironton, Staples and Park Rapids.

Ed. LaFond of Little Falls brought Guilbert Butenhoff, commercial instructor and four students from that city.

Ed. Vandersluis, editor of the Sauk Rapids "Sentinel," came up with eight students and their teacher, Miss Anderson, from the school at that town. S. P. Erickson, superintendent of Sauk Rapids schools, also brought three students.

Contestants are required to take shorthand dictation at the rate of 80 words per minute. Miss Georgia Scott, district chairman of the Minnesota State Commercial contests, is in charge. Winners in today's event will go to the state contest to be held in the Twin Cities in about two weeks. Miss Dorothy Smith, commercial instructor in the high school here, is a member of the state committee which has charge of the state contest.

Thirty-six students from the various schools are taking part in the work:

ONTARIO BUSY RESTOCKING ITS CELLARS

PREPARES NOW TO ENTERTAIN A MILLION AMERICANS

GOVERNMENT LIQUOR STORES OPEN FOR BUSINESS MAY 16

Hamilton, Ont., May 7.—(UP) — Ontario is preparing to restock its cellars and entertain a million Americans.

On Monday, May 16, or as soon thereafter as they are ready, the government liquor stores will be open for business and alcholic beverages will be legally sold without medical prescription for the first time in eleven years.

The province is already chafing under the fetters imposed by the control law. Drastic restrictions and severe penalties are expected in some measure to make up for the abolition of the bone dry statute.

In answer to the universal cry of "no return to the bars," the government has framed a law which it promises to serve that purpose. Any man or woman, Ontario citizen or visitor, who has a permit bearing his own name can obtain a limited amount of liquor from the government. But he must take his bottle to his home or his hotel to drink it. In hostelries and clubs, there must be no liquor consumed elsewhere than in the purchaser's private living quarters.

The clause forbidding a man to drink a bottle of beer with his meals in the public dining room, is arousing the most strenuous opposition among hotel proprietors. Plans have been made by some hotels for the installation of a small refrigerator in every bedroom.

The ruling that permanent or temporary residences alone can be used for drinking purposes is expected to permit the tourist to enjoy his bottle in the roadside camps which dot the highways.

The most severe penalties imposed are those for bootlegging.

Jail without the option of a fine will be the sentence for bootlegging on the first offense.

In expectation of the influx from across the border, property prices on the international boundary are soaring. Every farm house along the provincial highways is advertising tourist accomodations and new hotel buildings are announced for the principal cities.

The privileges of buying liquor will cost the visitors an initial $2 for a six-week permit. Each purchase will be entered on the permit. Prices at the government stores are expected to remain at the levels obtaining for the government dispensaries, where liquor is now sold on medical prescriptions. While no announcement has been made, other than that the province will sell beer at cost, the following prices per imperial (forty ounce) quart are most probable:

Scotch $6.

Brandy $5.

Gin, rum and Canadian whiskey $4.

Beer will cost about 17 cents a quart and $2 a case. Wines will range from about $7 a case for the native product to $7 a bottle for the rare imported vintages.

The liquor commission has been surveying the province in recent weeks with regard to the opening of stores. The number in each city varies according to population and proximity to the border. Hamilton with 130,000 citizens will have three stores; Windsor, with a much smaller population but with Detroit as a neighbor, will also have three.

The current belief is that the governmental restrictions will be modified after the new law comes into operation. A large part of the province is in favor of sale of beer by the glass at hotels and restaurants.

Meanwhile, the wide powers given the Ontario liquor control commission will enable that body to alter the law if experience shows the need.

The three men who form the commision and control law enforcement are David Blythe Hanna, chairman; Hon. R. K. Manion and Stewart McClenaghan. Hanna, a former president of the Canadian National railways, receives an annual salary of $20,000. He is one of Canada's best known industrialists and a director of half a dozen great companies. Manion is a former federal government minister and McClenaghan, a prominent business man.

FLOATER FOUND IN THE MISSISSPPI

Bodies of two women victims were found near Hastings not long ago and only one man is missing.

HAIL STORM KILLS CHICKENS BY THE DOZENS

Perry, Okla., May 7.—(UP)—Another terrific hail storm has taken further damage in Oklahoma. Chickens were killed by the dozens, wheat was driven to the ground and property damage running into thousands of dollars done by a storm near here late yesterday.

LOWDEN FOR PRESIDENT CLUBS BEING FORMED

PRE-CONVENTION CAMPAIGN WORK ON FOR ILLINOIS MAN

NO SIGN OF OPEN BREAK AMONG REPUBLICAN FORCES IN IOWA

By I. I. FEMRITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Des Moines, Ia., May 7.—Pre-convention campaign work of the newly formed Lowden-for-President committee got underway today with liberal republicans of Iowa triumphant over a conservative group for control of the organization.

Efforts of Governor John Hammill and the Iowa Lowden organization of 1920 to establish the state executive as chairman of the committee were defeated by friends of Frank J. Lund, partisan of Senator Smith W. Brookhart and a leading liberal.

With Hammill were allied Harry O. Weaver, Lowden organization manager in 1920; A. O. Hauge, Des Moines banker; and William O. Payne, close friend of the candidate.

There was no sign of open break among the republican forces, however. The tension incident to election of a chairman of the committee was relieved when Hammill, whose offer of his services as leader of the campaign were turned down, spoke urging burial of petty grievances.

"We must have but one object in view," he said, "and that is to advance agriculture. Unless personal interests and personal aggrandizement are forgotten, our efforts are doomed to failure."

The committee adopted as the principal plank in the Lowden platform a resolution favoring adoption of the McNary-Haugen bill "without modification."

Lund will name a committee of five to manage the campaign and headquarters of the movement for the former Illinois governor will be opened here in the near future.

The Iowans plan to extend their organization to other western states, depending on farm leaders and anti-administration republicans for the basis of their movement.

Annapolis, Md., May 7.—Harvard and the Navy will meet in two boat races on the Severn today.

SEEK CAUSE OF BLAST WRECKING CAB CO. OFFICES

New York, May 7.—(UP)—Three separate investigations were under way today to discover the cause of an explosion which wrecked the offices of the Yellow Taxicab Co. here yesterday, causing at least seven deaths and injuring 40 persons.

Two of the dead were women.

The building collapsed as a result of the blast and falling debris broke a water main running beneath the basement. All seven of the dead were pinned down by debris and drowned in water gushing from the broken main.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store. —Advt

ONTARIO BUSY RESTOCKING ITS CELLARS

PREPARES NOW TO ENTERTAIN A MILLION AMERICANS

GOVERNMENT LIQUOR STORES OPEN FOR BUSINESS MAY 16

Hamilton, Ont., May 7.—(UP) — Ontario is preparing to restock its cellars and entertain a million Americans.

On Monday, May 16, or as soon thereafter as they are ready, the government liquor stores will be open for business and alcholic beverages will be legally sold without medical prescription for the first time in eleven years.

The province is already chafing under the fetters imposed by the control law. Drastic restrictions and severe penalties are expected in some measure to make up for the abolition of the bone dry statute.

In answer to the universal cry of "no return to the bars," the government has framed a law which it promises to serve that purpose. Any man or woman, Ontario citizen or visitor, who has a permit bearing his own name can obtain a limited amount of liquor from the government. But he must take his bottle to his home or his hotel to drink it. In hostelries and clubs, there must be no liquor consumed elsewhere than in the purchaser's private living quarters.

The clause forbidding a man to drink a bottle of beer with his meals in the public dining room, is arousing the most strenuous opposition among hotel proprietors. Plans have been made by some hotels for the installation of a small refrigerator in every bedroom.

The ruling that permanent or temporary residences alone can be used for drinking purposes is expected to permit the tourist to enjoy his bottle in the roadside camps which dot the highways.

The most severe penalties imposed are those for bootlegging.

Jail without the option of a fine will be the sentence for bootlegging on the first offense.

In expectation of the influx from across the border, property prices on the international boundary are soaring. Every farm house along the provincial highways is advertising tourist accomodations and new hotel buildings are announced for the principal cities.

The privileges of buying liquor will cost the visitors an initial $2 for a six-week permit. Each purchase will be entered on the permit. Prices at the government stores are expected to remain at the levels obtaining for the government dispensaries, where liquor is now sold on medical prescriptions. While no announcement has been made, other than that the province will sell beer at cost, the following prices per imperial (forty ounce) quart are most probable:

Scotch $6.

Brandy $5.

Gin, rum and Canadian whiskey $4.

Beer will cost about 17 cents a quart and $2 a case. Wines will range from about $7 a case for the native product to $7 a bottle for the rare imported vintages.

The liquor commission has been surveying the province in recent weeks with regard to the opening of stores. The number in each city varies according to population and proximity to the border. Hamilton with 130,000 citizens will have three stores; Windsor, with a much smaller population but with Detroit as a neighbor, will also have three.

The current belief is that the governmental restrictions will be modified after the new law comes into operation. A large part of the province is in favor of sale of beer by the glass at hotels and restaurants.

Meanwhile, the wide powers given the Ontario liquor control commission will enable that body to alter the law if experience shows the need.

The three men who form the commision and control law enforcement are David Blythe Hanna, chairman; Hon. R. K. Manion and Stewart McClenaghan. Hanna, a former president of the Canadian National railways, receives an annual salary of $20,000. He is one of Canada's best known industrialists and a director of half a dozen great companies. Manion is a former federal government minister and McClenaghan, a prominent business man.

HAIL STORM KILLS CHICKENS BY THE DOZENS

LOWDEN FOR PRESIDENT CLUBS BEING FORMED

PRE-CONVENTION CAMPAIGN WORK ON FOR ILLINOIS MAN

NO SIGN OF OPEN BREAK AMONG REPUBLICAN FORCES IN IOWA

By I. I. FEMRITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Des Moines, Ia., May 7.—Pre-convention campaign work of the newly formed Lowden-for-President committee got underway today with liberal republicans of Iowa triumphant over a conservative group for control of the organization.

Efforts of Governor John Hammill and the Iowa Lowden organization of 1920 to establish the state executive as chairman of the committee were defeated by friends of Frank J. Lund, partisan of Senator Smith W. Brookhart and a leading liberal.

With Hammill were allied Harry O. Weaver, Lowden organization manager in 1920; A. O. Hauge, Des Moines banker; and William O. Payne, close friend of the candidate.

There was no sign of open break among the republican forces, however. The tension incident to election of a chairman of the committee was relieved when Hammill, whose offer of his services as leader of the campaign were turned down, spoke urging burial of petty grievances.

"We must have but one object in view," he said, "and that is to advance agriculture. Unless personal interests and personal aggrandizement are forgotten, our efforts are doomed to failure."

The committee adopted as the principal plank in the Lowden platform a resolution favoring adoption of the McNary-Haugen bill "without modification."

Lund will name a committee of five to manage the campaign and headquarters of the movement for the former Illinois governor will be opened here in the near future.

The Iowans plan to extend their organization to other western states, depending on farm leaders and anti-administration republicans for the basis of their movement.

FIGHTING FIREMEN ARE CONQUERED BY PNEUMONIA ATTACK

Chicago, May 7. — (UP) — Firemen who stood at the bedside of Harry O. Thompson for 66 hours, fighting pneumonia with oxygen, were beaten by death.

Members of a fire company, appealed to by Thompson's physician, administered the oxygen in half-hour doses in an effort to save the sick man.

SEEK CAUSE OF BLAST WRECKING CAB CO. OFFICES

New York, May 7.—(UP)—Three separate investigations were under way today to discover the cause of an explosion which wrecked the offices of the Yellow Taxicab Co. here yesterday, causing at least seven deaths and injuring 40 persons.

Two of the dead were women.

The building collapsed as a result of the blast and falling debris broke a water main running beneath the basement. All seven of the dead were pinned down by debris and drowned in water gushing from the broken main.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur may he had at any good drug store. —Advt

An Amazing Success

Feen-a-mint

The Chewing LAXATIVE

Chew It Like Chewing Gum

A pleasure to use. Very efficient. Children love it. No taste but that of sweet mint. The most popular laxative because it's a "satisfier." 15c and 25c.

Zonite

For feminine hygiene

Enlightened women are now using Zonite instead of poisonous compounds for this important purpose. Zonite is thoroughly effective but harmless to delicate tissues.

Babies Love It

For all stomach and intestinal troubles and disturbances due to teething, there is nothing better than a safe Infants' and Children's Laxative.
